Prince Bishops Brass Ensemble was formed by a group of brass-playing friends who would meet each other whilst playing at various locations around the North of England. During the countless bars' rest they encountered while playing for choral societies, operatic companies, symphony orchestras, brass bands, function bands and big bands, they decided to get together as a brass quintet to eliminate the need to count quite as much.

The line-up of instruments is two trumpets (doubling flugel horn, E♭ and piccolo trumpet), French horn, trombone and tuba. With the quintet being based in County Durham, the name Prince Bishops Brass Ensemble was the obvious choice.
